

Vacancy: Fundraiser (voluntary)

About us

Hackers Helping Hackers is a world-first non-profit organisation.

We exist to help diversify the information security industry in Australia, and we do so by supporting a wide range of people to develop careers in the sector.

We're run by a staff of six volunteers, with experience in the non-profit and information security sectors.

We're a little bit different and we're hoping to make a big impact.

You can find out more about Hackers Helping Hackers and our program at <https://www.hackershelpinghackers.com>

About the role

In order to succeed in launching our 2018 program, which will see 15 young people (including at least 7 women) attend information security conferences around Australia, we have some high fundraising targets to reach.

This role exists to help us do that.

Working under the supervision of our Chief Operating Officer, you will lead our fundraising efforts in two key areas:

- Corporate partnerships, with information security and technology companies across Australia.
- Community fundraising, through our pay-it-forward program.

This role is voluntary. We anticipate an average of 4 to 5 hours' commitment per week will be required.

About you

- You're passionate about technology
- You believe strongly in the importance of diversity
- You either have fundraising experience or experience in the information security field and a willingness to learn
- You're self-motivated and don't require much supervision
- You're excited to change an industry for the better

How to apply

Email your resume and a paragraph on why you're interested to Gil Azaria, COO: gil@hackershelpinghackers.com